Sponsor Award Winner Selected in The University of Electro-Communications U☆PoC Idea Contest

EXEO Group, Inc. (head office: Shibuya-Ku, Tokyo; Tetsuya Funabashi, President; hereafter the “Company”) sponsors the 2023 UEC U☆PoC- Idea Contest hosted by the Center for Industrial and Governmental Relations of the The University of Electro-Communications.

Students develop their own ideas about new technologies or services for solving existing social issues or creating a prosperous future to compete in U☆PoC.* At the contest's prototype examination meeting held on August 31, the Company selected the winner of the Sponsor Award as follows after evaluating competitors' submissions from the perspectives of exceptional vision, how social issues are viewed and scalability for its businesses, etc.

Sponsor Award: Countermeasures against rocky-shore denudation using an undersea drone

The Company aims to contribute to solving social issues on a global scale through the advancement and integration of engineering capabilities by supporting new technologies and open innovation and providing solutions for all social infrastructure, including information and communications infrastructure.
