Notice Regarding Business Alliance With Daiichi-Hutecc Corporation

EXEO Group, Inc. (head office: Shibuya-ku, Tokyo; Tetsuya Funabashi, President) announces that it has signed a business alliance agreement with Daiichi-Hutecc Corporation (head office: Shinjuku-ku, Tokyo; Satoshi Shimatani, President).

1. Purpose of the business alliance

Daiichi-Hutecc Corporation is a company which, since its foundation, has been providing construction, renovation and remodeling services mainly for NTT-related facilities, office buildings and condominiums, and which has an extensive track record and proven technological capability in construction services.

This latest business alliance will combine the EXEO Group's ICT solutions with Daiichi-Hutecc's technological capabilities in construction services. Under the agreement, the two companies will build a relationship of cooperation on many fronts, including collaborating in construction services for data centers, communication facilities and environmental plants provided by the EXEO Group and collaborating in construction to increase energy saving at existing buildings promoted by the EXEO Group.

Together, the EXEO Group and Daiichi-Hutecc will develop buildings with high added value and promote the digital transformation (DX) of the construction process, aiming to provide even higher added value to customers.

The Group believes that solving social issues is a universal mission as it laid out in its 2030 Vision and Medium-Term Management Plan (FY2021-FY2025). With this in mind, the Group will strive to connect and combine a variety of engineering areas through innovation and work relentlessly to create value for sustainable growth. By doing so, it aims to be a corporate group that is socially essential globally and in Japan.
